A STRONG WIND Saturday night collapsed the north wall of the G. G. Greene building at the corner of Lexington ave. and Irvine st. The split tank lost 5,650 gallons of fuel which flowed a foot deep on the ground and created a fire hazard which was guarded closely for several hours. The building is being razed by Segel and Son. Gasoline remained unharmed in the other tanks, one of which contained ethyl. The building at one time was the Warren Mirror Works.

REPORT FROM THE WHITE HOUSE

A couple of weeks ago White House correspondents asked a question that had been bothering them for some time: what the devil was Robert Montgomery, the movie actor and television producer, doing on the premises from 9 to 5 Monday through Friday?

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty replied that Mr. Montgomery helped President Eisenhower with the technical side of his television speeches, adding that the actor was not on the payroll and was contributing his services for free. While that dispelled any fears about Mr. Montgomery having his hand in the public till, it still didn't clear up the mystery as to what Montgomery was doing with his time. The President doesn't make very many TV speeches and the technical end of any speech ought to be a matter of maybe twenty minutes or so.

Well, sir, I dispatched a hired snoop to the White House to snoop and report back. He's just back, breathing hard and full of information: "This Montgomery is certainly the suavest and handsomest guy ever to get waved on his way by White House plainclothesmen. You ask him what he's doing there and first crack out of the box, you get the guided tour through plenty of corridors and terraced porches to the Presidential studio, especially lit for TV.

"Montgomery lit it himself and he boasts that he can produce any kind of Ike he wants - a light Ike, a dark Ike or a technical Ike - whatever that means. It's all done by lights because Montgomery won't let the President use make-up. He says: 'I want to bring out Ike's wonderful personality. This is the person the people voted for. I want them to see him.'"

Montgomery's toughest problem arises when Ike has to read a speech simultaneously before both movie and TV cameras. Movie cameras need a lot more light than TV cameras and Montgomery is horrified when those 2,000 watt lights strike the Presidential pate and sets it to gleaming like a river in the moonlight. One of Montgomery's most valuable services has been to teach Ike how to use teleprompter, the gadget that rolls out a speech in big letters before the speaker's eyes.

At the Madison Square Garden rally, Ike ad libbed a few words; the teleprompter got ahead of him and he never caught up with his own speech. He swore he'd never use the infernal thing again. However, Montgomery wooed him back to the instrument and now Ike and the teleprompter get along just fine.

"Montgomery provides other, less tangible services," my snoop reported. "He puts the President at ease just before air time. Ike goes into a little room just off the studio and relaxes with Montgomery. Montgomery also cues the President to start talking, a duty ordinarily handled by floor managers.

"This matter of cues is bad enough with just a floor manager but when the floor manager has to cue Montgomery who in turn cues the President, it is easy to understand why Eisenhower is on camera for four or five seconds with what is known in the trade as egg on his face, while the cues are being relayed from the mobile unit outside the White House to the f. m. to Montgomery to the President. Tinker, Evers and Chance had it real easy next to this bunch."

"What about the Eisenhower style?" I inquired. "Any drastic changes since Montgomery got an office in the White House?"

"Well, yes. The President nowadays stands on his feet in front of his desk rather than sitting behind it. It gives him a more genial appearance. Also, he's taught the President to keep his head up so

BUYERS' CORNER

Coffee Will Stay Up

Too bad for the coffee imbibers, but the price may never come down to the level at which it once sold. First, there is a shortage. Second, when the shortage is overcome the increasing labor cost in coffee nations will prohibit prices of the past.

We have enjoyed those cheap cups of coffee mostly because it was a cheap labor product. This rapidly is changing. And even a double yield of the bean through scientific methods and new types of plants will not bring the cost down to small figures.

Says the Coffee Commission in Washington.

What You Spend For Clothing

The average American spends $114 for clothing each year, according to one survey made by Henry Bach Associates, Inc. Of course this figure varies with the income groups. Those who earn less than $1,000 spend an average of $11 a year. Those with over $10,000 for income go to $377.

The biggest percentage of families have an income between $3,000 and $4,000 a year. These spend an average of $84 per each for clothing. Another large group is the $2,000 to $3,000 bracket which spends $71 per person.

The $4,000 to $5,000 group averages $106, and the $5,000 to $7,500 category checks out $158.

High Prices Boost Record

Those higher prices that came along when the so-called controls disappeared accounted for a big share of the increase in retail stores last year. The total was $171 billion, an increase of four percent over 1952.

Pleasant Quotes

"I believe that the newspaper is the only constant medium that will bring daily traffic and sales to a store; it's foolish for a store to dissipate its budget and diffuse its selling message by spending appreciable sums in these other frail and feeble areas." By frail and feeble areas the speaker meant radio and television. And he was not buttering up a group of newspaper men. He was speaking to a large group of leading retailers.

He also was not a newspaper man. In fact, he was not a man. He was a lady, Bernice Fitz-Gibbon, well known advertising director of Gimbels, who has tried all the mediums and knows the score. She was addressing the National Retail Dry Goods association convention in New York.

Among her statements was "the newspaper is the best advertising medium on earth or in the air" because "something seems more credible, more believable, when you see it in a newspaper than when you read or hear it from any other source."

The lady's analysis may not be correct but her knowledge of the facts and advertising results are difficult to refute. We hear so much chatter by radio men who constantly whistle loudly in the dark every time television rears its threatening antenna that we can't refrain from revealing the truth now and then.

With jobs not quite so prevalent as they were a few months back and with many good men wondering about the future, we have a suggestion to make. Few men have the time or the ability to adequately make repairs that are needed to the many gadgets which have become a major part of modern life. And when servicemen from some stores who sell the gadgets are called they are more apt to attempt a sale than they are to do a good repair job.

So why not a well equipped fix-it shop. Everything from leaking faucets to noisy radios require repairs. You starve repairing a single line. Why not do any job needed around the typical American home, and, of course, advertise your service in ALL mediums.

Twenty Cent Gasoline?

With gasoline prices slipping in many parts of the country and with which gave us flagpole sitting, marathon dancing, jazz, and the practice of going over Niagara Falls in a barrel...also gave us marathon piano playing. Warren's own Burt Kofod was the leading exponent of this spectacle. Professor Burt was known to thousands of newspaper readers and personal viewers throughout the U. S. In 1928 he beat his own record by the heavy motoring season still many weeks away there are some who believe the five gallons for a dollar sign may appear this spring. We are skeptical.

THE ROARING TWENTIES...

Though gasoline stocks are about fourteen percent higher than a year ago, and probably will total 185 million gallons before the summer drain begins, the demand also will be greater if people get over their semi-scare and start going places playing 102 hours and 38 minutes without taking his hands from the keyboard. Prof. B. G. Kofod and his wife, Nellie, now operate the Kofod Piano Store on Pennsylvania ave., East. Last summer the Lester Piano company elected him piano dealer of the month. Asked recently how he played the piano so long at a sitting, Mr. Kofod replied, "just honest practice and exercise."

in the usual fashion.

If work is at all normal and vacation driving the same, gasoline will burn in those many new wagons that are crowding the roads. But the big supply will keep the price down lower than it has been for a few years, and a combination of economical driving and continued large production may result in something close to that five for a buck dream.

Y-TEEN BASKETBALL TEAM

Now an integrated part of the Y-Teen Program, the Basketball Team has become an essential part of this group's activities.

Basketball is not a new sport to the younger members of the Y.W.C.A.; an industrial league was established during World War II, and 1948 saw the first basketball team under the new name of the teenage members, Y-Teens.

Purposes of this team are to create good sportsmanship, build character, furnish recreation, and to provide an opportunity to meet girls from other towns.

Coached by Miss Martha Sable, the team has enjoyed victories over Sugar Grove, Jamestown and Meadville, and has suffered losses to Titusville and Oil City. Penny Mader, the team manager, has scheduled the games, arranged for transportation and has served as Warren's referee at all of the games.

The blue and white uniforms are new this year, as are the warm-up shirts bearing the Y-Teen emblem.

A record of this year's games to date are as follows:

Titusville	56	Warren	29
Meadville	27	Warren	35
Oil City	46	Warren	26
Jamestown	24	Warren	44
Jamestown	21	Warren	39

We constantly are amazed at the treatment given FM. There is no reception better than FM. It does not fade, it has no static, you can tune it in and leave it alone for the evening with no alterations or additional dialing.

Despite these assets which make it a very saleable medium, many radio operators treat it like a step-child and wonder why it isn't well received. If you happen to have the AM radio on in the afternoon you may be nauseated in the evening by hearing the same canned broadcast over FM. Naturally you turn to another station or to TV. Or you shut the things off and enjoy another form of pleasure.

The one type of program that has helped radio hold its own in the face of the TV blitz is the news broadcast. Most people will turn from whatever they are doing to learn what is happening in the area, or the world. Yet there are so-called news bureaus in some radio stations which do not have a round-up of the local news late in the evening.

FM is equipped to do a well rounded job. But the best of equipment is of little value unless it is intelligently utilized.

"I can lick that guy with one hand," must be the most common boast or slogan of a large percentage of television fighters we have observed. At least they perform as though they were trying to prove that they could tie one hand to their side and win.

We constantly are disgusted by the lack of ability shown by so-called professional fighters. We have known many amateurs in years past who could knock the ears off most of these fumbling.

groping, clinging would-be's who are taking money for something they do not do. Namely, fight!

We may see ultra high frequency television before this year is out. It was reported early this week that Jamestown's WJTN-TV has been granted the right to shift its transmitter site to a spot on the Hunt rd. Once such an approval is granted the licensee can not delay too long the job of using his permit.

How well Warren county will receive this signal is impossible to say until the station is functioning. Warren should do about as well as if the original site at Frewsburg were used. Sheffield, Tidioute, and other southern and eastern parts of the county may not fair so well. Youngsville should receive a strong signal.

Ultra high frequency, in case you are a newcomer to this subject, does not have the range of very high frequency. The stations to which you now listen have a strong range for at least fifty miles, and their fringe signals vary in strength, with good signals often heard at a hundred miles.

But ultra high frequency is apt to become a fringe signal at twenty-five miles. It depends on the geography, the transmitter, and other related characteristics. We won't know whether Jamestown will adequately serve us until it is operating. If it fails, a station in Warren county may result.

Urges Investigation Of Smear Techniques

By U. S. Senator
Margaret Chase Smith

WASHINGTON. -- More than two years ago I publicly defended then Governor Warren against a smearing attack made on him by some of his California enemies. They charged that there was a "New Deal-Communist plot" to impose Eisenhower, Warren or Stassen on the Republican ticket. In their publication they singled out Earl Warren first and gave him top billing in the attack they made. General Eisenhower was relegated to second position. They accused him of "treachery" and of being "the perfect choice" to "participate in the betrayal of Eastern Europe to the Kremlin."

One month after I made a radio broadcast denouncing this publication and the distribution of it, Senator Robert A. Taft, in the public announcement of his Presidential candidacy, also repudiated and denounced it. I think that the action of Senator Taft was surely more impressive than my action on the matter. And to those who have any misgivings about the loyalty of Earl Warren to his country and the falsity of the irresponsible charges against him I would invite reference to this public statement of the late Senator.

The recent attacks made on Chief Justice Warren in letters to the Senate Judiciary Committee are of a like vein to those which Senator Taft and I denounced. They were intended to block Senate confirmation of Earl Warren to the post of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. From the very outset it was apparent that the attacks would fail and that Warren would win easy and overwhelming confirmation by the Senate.

A controversy arose out of the action of the chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee making public the irresponsible and ridiculous attacks on the Chief Justice. Whether that action was desirable or not, at least some good has come from it. That good is in the fact that it further illustrates how we are living in an era of wholesale slander -- of how every one of us may be made the target of false and malicious attacks. For if it can happen to the Chief Justice of the United States, it can happen to you.

Chief Justice Warren is fortunate to have so many respected men in high places from President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon on down to come to his defense and to have so many Senators rally to his side against the false accusers. But what about Joe Doaks? He is not so fortunate. He does not have men in high places to come to his aid if false and malicious charges are made against him.

Yet, chances are that the average Joe Doaks doesn't have any concern about this because he feels that it will never happen to him. If and when it does happen, he will be concerned and he will view past denunciations of attacks made against others as more than mere pious platitudes.

However unfair and false the attacks on Chief Justice Warren in the letters to the Senate Judiciary Committee, some good has come from their publication for it reveals just how vicious the art of slander has gotten in our times. And it should lead to a full scale investigation of the people who made these charges, their background, their motives, their backers and their own records.

YOUNGVILLE NATIONAL BANK TO EXPAND FACILITIES

The Youngsville National Bank (pictured above) is now engaged in developing plans for expansion which shall be accomplished when the post office is settled in its new location. F. J. Schumacher, cashier, advises that the bank will assume the area now used for postal service for direct relations with the public and the portion now used by the bank will be reserved for office and machine space.

Complete interior changes will be made in order to present an L-shaped service department for the benefit of its patrons. Work will be started on June 30th with the anticipated completion date listed as September 1st. Other officers of the local institution include Howard Kay, president, and F. G. Beckenbach as vice president.

YOUNGVILLE POST OFFICE WILL MOVE

Warren H. Jones, postmaster, has announced that the local post office will occupy the ground floor of the building pictured above which is presently owned by Donald Agnew. Contractors are now engaged in investigating the existing building in preparation to bidding on the necessary new construction and renovating.

Mr. Jones reports that an addition, 18 ft. x 20 ft., will be erected on the rear of the structure along Railroad st. to provide the required space necessary to house 760 lock boxes and the anticipated new equipment. Increases in Youngsville business activity have proven the present facilities inadequate.

The postmaster mentioned particularly the Warren Electric Cooperative as an expanding concern which receives and deposits large quantities of mail daily. This will be the first location change for the Youngsville post office in nearly forty-five years.

Brokenstraw Valley Joint Schools Discussed

Mr. Paul R. Getts, supervising principal of the Brokenstraw Valley joint schools, has revealed in an interview this week the distribution of authority in connection with the consolidation. Working out the intricate details of instruction for the children and young people of Brokenstraw, Eldred, Freehold, Pittsfield Townships and Youngsville Borough is the responsibility of the five men elected as school directors in each of the political subdivisions constituting the district. The actual decisions are made by one of the following groups: The local boards which are elected by the citizens; the joint school board which consists of all twenty-five members; the joint committee which is composed of two directors from each local board.

The local school boards have accepted three distinct duties — they maintain the elementary buildings, arrange for transportation of students and devise the methods of procuring their share of the total cost.

The joint school board must set the budget, purchase land and delegate to the local groups their apportionment. They distribute the costs of instruction according to the number of students and capital outlay in proportion to assessed valuations.

The joint committee operates the high school and various elementary schools with regard to instruction, supplies and overhead. At the present time, the committee is composed of Kenneth Franklin and Ernest Oviatt representing Brokenstraw Township; Gilbert Anderson and Marshall Danielson from Eldred Township; Clair Cowles and Sheridan Baker from Freehold Township; Homer Wolfe and Charles Camp representing Pittsfield Township; Edward Day and Wyllys Johnson of Youngsville Borough. Mr. Day now serves as president, Mr. Franklin as vice president, and Mr. Oviatt as secretary.

The extent of the responsibilities these men share might be further emphasized with the knowledge that the school district serves 1270 tuition students receiving instruction elsewhere. A staff of fifty teachers are employed for instructing purposes. The various buildings are cared for by seven janitors. Twenty buses are required to transport the students to and from the school buildings.

A building program designed to increase its facilities by new construction and alterations to the existing plant is underway.

Through the untiring efforts of the various school directors the tremendous task of combining the resources of the citizens of the Brokenstraw Valley has been accomplished.

THE BROKENSTRAW VALLEY JOINT SCHOOLS COMMITTEE

by Dr. Norman C. Morgan

I never cease to be amazed that children survive our culture as well as they do. Every once in a while when grown-up life seems a little hard to bear, I get down on my knees, not to pray, but to see how things might be if I were returned to the happy days of childhood again.

Down on your knees it is very hard to see the mittens "right in front of your nose", when really the shelf is higher than you and you can only see the edge of it. Or when you have to stretch to reach the top shelf of the refrigerator for a bottle of milk which is too big for your hand in the first place, YOU are not surprised that occasionally it slips.

Down on your knees crawling into first grade surrounded by many larger children who rush here and there as though they knew what they were doing and meeting teachers to whom this is old stuff - well, it just makes you wonder whether it would not be pleasanter to stay in kindergarten another year.

Or when you land in the class that has the awful teacher that all the children either hate or fear and whose case makes the parents murmur "tenure" and shake their heads dubiously as though it were not really their democratic right to do anything about the affairs of their community - well, when this happens YOU are not surprised when once in a while you wake up feeling you would rather vomit all morning than go back to school. It is a curious thing how a child can be sick all of one year and enjoy good health the next. "He just grew out of it." Or did he outgrow the teacher? Certainly not all the problems of children in school stem from the teacher or the school. But I wonder sometimes whether parents and school boards are sufficiently curious about the details of just what series of trivial events eventually climaxes into a "problem".

You do not have to work in a child guidance clinic long to learn that often a child who is burdened at home is burdened at school as well. The result may be more than he can take. Every school has enough children with troubles that a large part of the annual school tax you pay is spent not in normal everyday teaching, but in coping with problems.

I one time made the mistake of offering my services free to a group of teachers for the purpose of analyzing with them some of the problem situations. The program was a quick failure, but it lasted long enough for the teachers to admit that there were plenty of children whom they did not understand and with whom they could not cope. They were dubious about studying the situation, however, feeling more secure in long-familiar ignorance than in an unfamiliar field that might require a change in attitude.

After I walk around on my knees awhile thinking about all these things, it begins to hurt, so I decide to become very brave, stand on my own two feet, and let the children fend for themselves.

OBSERVATIONS

By Bob Walsh

In Buyers Corner this week we give radio a rib and prove the point with the help of a recognized authority on radio advertising. But both radio and the press, as well as all entertainment forms, must face the fact that a new competitor is on the field and it is doing right well.

Television has taken participants away from many sports and other means of spending leisure hours. It has stolen a share of audiences from drama, sports, night clubs, bar rooms, and other centers of pleasure.

It also has been accepting dollars from those who advertise their wares and many of these are not gentlemen who are hasty about throwing away a buck. They know a good thing when they buy it and they have been buying those enthusiastic audiences who still are in their first blush of TV novelty.

Any radio man who says that television has not stolen a big share of his audience can't add two and two. Even the radio men who deny this admit they have a television set in their home and that they watch it. They certainly are not listening to radio at the same time. Yet they are selling advertising to customers for the very hours that they are not listening to their own stations.

The people did not erect those aerials and spend husky chunks of the pay roll for television sets to listen to radio.

Newspapers sound equally as silly to say that they are as thoroughly read as they were before television. They are not as thoroughly read and they have lost some circulation.

People have not given up reading their papers but they do not spend the hours necessary to thumb through those heavy-paged dailies that have developed in late years. The family with a big city daily, the local daily, and a television set just does not get to every page and word of those papers.

For example, since 1950 the New York News has lost 222,613 readers, the New York Mirror has lost 178,243, the New York Times is down 39,584, the Herald Tribune has slipped 26,960, the Journal-

American skidded 71,477, and the World-Telegram and Sun fell 55,541. We must remember, of course, that the New York Post's circulation increase of 135,600 accounts for some of these.

The New York papers also find other reasons for some of this drop. These include the increased price of papers, the increased number of residents in New York city who do not speak English, the higher subway fares which eat into budgets, and the population shift to the suburbs.

All of this ties into a punch line which we want to leave with you. That move to the suburbs and the reason it cuts into the sale of the big dailies is the rapid growth of quality weekly papers. We know one press on Long Island that prints twenty-two weeklies every Thursday.

Weeklies are handy. They do not rush you in their reading. The good ones have features that are useful for several days. They are not thrown away the day they arrive but are kept around the average home for a week or more until the entire family sees them.

The average weekly is more thoroughly read than the average daily. The average reader sees more of a weekly than he does of the daily.

As for radio - the man who is watching television will find time for his weekly features. The woman who has the radio shut off and does not hear your commercial will see her weekly and your ad before the week is past.

The quality weekly is growing. Good old television fan, with no time to waste and eyes that ran. She is our woman! He is our man!

Facts About The
REVOLUTIONARY SPAN - O - LIFE BATTERY

Some of you have been told by your dealers who are not familiar with SPAN - O - LIFE that this battery is an ordinary premium lead acid battery. THIS IS NOT THE WHOLE TRUTH. The plates in SPAN - O - LIFE are NOT LEAD, but an alloy that does not self-discharge when setting as lead batteries do.

The electrolyte used in SPAN - O - LIFE is of a mineral derivative base that will not heat up when the generator is putting a charge into it. Heat is your greatest killer of batteries. Because SPAN - O - LIFE has eliminated internal heat, this means longer life, and less water to be added for you have less evaporation. This electrolyte is of U. S. origin.

Many of you have read of the long life batteries enjoyed by the people of Europe. The Swedish have their nickel cadmium battery, the French have their silver battery and SPAN - O - LIFE is copied after the German long life battery. You may also have read how these amazing batteries were kept out of the United States by a cartel.

The capacity of SPAN - O - LIFE is 2 to 5 times greater than lead acid batteries. SPAN - O - LIFE batteries have been run dead over 2000 times and always come back to life unaided. This is very important for the cars of today with so many electrical accessories.

Forwards Jim Spear, excellent rebounder and good consistent player, and leading scorer Dallas Haight had accounted for a total of 349 points prior to Tuesday's encounter. Frank Stoudt, center, uses his 6 ft., 2 1-2 in. height to good advantage on rebounds and he possesses a good jump shot. Neal Meabon, guard, acts as lead man on the fast break. Fred Phanco has contributed valuable service to the team as he is capable of playing any position and has been called upon often to fill-in this season. Youngsville's enviable record is as follows:

Frank J. Kamus, Youngsville's popular coach, hails from Swoverville, Pa. He has been coaching and teaching since September 1949 having received his qualifications from Lock Haven State Teachers College. Mr. Kamus, his wife Marjorie and two children, three-year old Susan and four-months old Bob, live on East Main st. in Youngsville.

The coach is high in his praise of the boys and reports that they have all been interested in a team victory rather than individual scoring. He further states: "Their behavior on the playing court has always been in the true tradition of good sportsmanship".

The citizens of Youngsville and the entire area served by the Brokenstraw Valley joint schools are justly proud of their coach and his championship team. All of us wish the team continued success as they advance in playoff competition.

MAEDER NURSING HOME. Friends will not be happy to hear that Mrs. Anna Campbell Maeder has announced that her nursing home at 10 S. Marion st., Warren, will discontinue in the late spring of this year. Specializing in giving her patients quality service, Mrs. Maeder was, before coming to Warren, a nurse in the home of William Gargan, the movie and radio actor. She tells an interesting anecdote of when one of Gargan's sons was born. Pat O'Brien called Gargan's home, asked for Gargan and when Mrs. Maeder, the nurse, explained that Gargan was at the hospital, O'Brien said, "Well, I just called to tell Bill that no father ever died of childbirth." Mrs. Maeder incidentally is a direct descendant of James Russell Lowell, the American poet.
